Executive Team Members

Jill Lansky

Jill is the Youth Outreach Coordinator at Kalamazoo Public Library. Jill has over 21 years of experience at our library serving youth, families, and caregivers in Kalamazoo. This position coordinates special program outreach for youth through partnership programs that serve KPL residents as well as the County of Kalamazoo. Jill leads the county wide early literacy initiative called Ready to Read which provides books for 0-5 year olds through partners such as pediatricians, childcare providers, preschools and more.

Amber Morris

Amber is a Family Advocate with KRESA Head Start. She has been serving families within the Head Start program for the last two years by helping them complete enrollment, setting health goals and checking in with them regularly to see if there are any resources within Kalamazoo County that could benefit them or help meet their needs. Amber has a elementary teaching degree and early childhood endorsement from Western Michigan University. Before working for KRESA, Amber was the preschool director and one of the teachers at Heart and Hands Preschool in the Vicksburg United Methodist Church. Amber handled enrollment, marketing, finances and staffing as well as teaching 3 and 4 year olds over the 10 years she worked in Vicksburg. The last 5 years she taught GSRP and KC Ready 4s students and regularly attended quarterly GSC meetings. Amber is passionate about early childhood education and its impact on future educational success. She and her husband, Mark, live in Portage and are the parents of three young adults. In her free time, Amber enjoys jigsaw puzzles, reading novels and Netflix.

Heather Phillips

Heather is local to the Kalamazoo Area and graduated with a B.S.W. from Eastern Michigan University in 2012. Nathan Reed

Nathan is a Registered Dietitian and Coordinator for the Kalamazoo County Women Infants and Children (WIC) program. He has been working for WIC for over 12 years. He is passionate about making sure that families have access to healthy nutritious foods and get a great start right from the beginning. He is a husband and the father of two young boys and spends most of his free time with his family.

Dianne Shaffer

Dianne has worked for Integrated Services of Kalamazoo (ISK) since November 2012, first as a Program Manager for Youth and Families, followed by Director of Systems Development, and now as Senior Executive for Policy, Planning and Innovation. In her current role, she serves in a leadership capacity to plan, design, develop, implement and monitor community collaborative programs, projects and service delivery systems. Dianne directs the planning and implementation of public education and social marketing strategies to meet the identified goals of ISK and to increase the awareness of the mental health services and resources available within Kalamazoo County. Dianne also assists with grant writing, program development and implementation. Prior to ISK, Dianne was the Executive Director of Advocacy Services for Kids (ASK). During her tenure with ASK, she was involved in the implementation of federal SAMHSA grants in both Kalamazoo and Kent Counties, and provided trainings on family-driven, youth-guided mental health services at the local, state, and national levels. After earning a Master of Social Work degree from Western Michigan University (WMU) in 1997, Dianne served families in Kalamazoo and Southwest Michigan for 10 years prior to moving into administrative roles.

Jen Sova

Jen is the Administrator for Early Intervention and Special Services for Kalamazoo Regional Educational Service Agency, supporting programs for developmentally delayed children birth through age five. Jen was a speech-language pathologist and program coordinator for Early Childhood in Grand Rapids Public Schools prior to coming to Kalamazoo in 2017. Her passion for early childhood education stems from the belief in front loading services through early intervention providing language, literacy and social emotional learning to increase academic success. Jen has been a leader in Multi-Tiered Systems of Support (MTSS) and curriculum implementation designing tiered supports and measurement tools to improve supports for all preschoolers. Jen is a proponent for the use of direct instruction for children with deficit language formulation and processing. Currently, Jen works with individuals across early childhood to expand opportunities for children by reducing barriers and teaching children in their least restrictive environment. Jen has facilitated multiple conference and professional development sessions on the continuum of service for preschoolers, enhancing opportunities for inclusion and thoughtful decisions around least restrictive environments

Executive Team Members

Elizabeth Spaner

Elizabeth currently oversees seventeen early childhood classrooms in the KPS district as well as holds the position of principal for Greenwood Elementary, a pre-K to grade 3 building in the district. Her passion for early childhood education began with her first job as a Mobil Unit Teacher for Tri-County Head Start. This position had her driving a 35-foot mobile classroom to rural communities to teach three and four-year-old children in a group setting building their social skills. She worked for Head Start until 2016 when she joined Kalamazoo Public Schools as the Coordinator of Early Childhood Programs.

Laura Ynclan

Laura, in her professional life, she is an Early Childhood Specialist, which is a coach for preschool teachers in Kalamazoo County. She works with state funded preschool programs and HeadStart preschool programs. Laura says “the best part of her job is watching teachers realize their potential and getting to know the children in the classroom:!” In her personal life, Laura lives with her best friend and spouse, Jeremy, and their two children, Christian (14 yrs) and Jordan (10 yrs). She has been involved with the Great Start Collaborative in some way (as a parent on the Parent Coalition or as a professional on the executive board) for almost 15 years!
